Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 05 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Showery today. Turning much colder over the weekend.

Today:
A murky start in places. An area of showery rain will make its way across the region from the west, but there should be a few brighter spells too. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Tonight:
Dry with clear spells and turning chilly for many, although the chance of the odd shower remains. During the small hours, occasionally heavy showers will cross over western parts. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Saturday:
A chilly start, then another day of sunshine and showers for most. Rain will push into the region from the east during the afternoon. Maximum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Much colder on Sunday with a risk of snow in eastern areas. Very cold on Monday and Tuesday with a few wintry showers and a bitter wind chill.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.